

Call For Papers

ANAPRI- World Bank Conference

Theme

Leveraging the Agrifood System for Jobs

Areas of interest include:

- ✓ Current AFS job profiles and prospects, on and off the farm, rural and urban
- ✓ Skill needs and skill delivery systems for the future AFS workforce (on/off farm)
- ✓ AFS mechanization and automation through a job lens
- ✓ Implications of sustainable intensification for AFS job outcomes
- ✓ Role and constraints of AFS MSMEs as driver of AFS expansion and job creation
- ✓ Effectiveness of inclusive agricultural value chain development models for jobs
- ✓ AFS job effects of digitally enabled agricultural services
- ✓ Inclusion of youth and women in AFS job expansion
- ✓ Quality of AFS jobs

Submissions

- We welcome theoretical, empirical as well as modeling, case study and policy-oriented papers not yet published in a journal. Solution-oriented contributions are particularly encouraged.
- The focus is on low and lower-middle-income countries (especially Sub-Saharan Africa and Asia) but global perspectives and lessons from continents and high-income countries are welcome.
- Travel (economy class) and lodging will be compensated for one presenter per selected paper.

Submission Link

Click here to submit paper

More Information

Visit: <https://www.anapri.net/anapri-world-bank-conference/>

Submission of Full Papers
Deadline

September 15, 2025

Selected Papers

To be presented on Nov 3, 2025, in Kigali, Rwanda during a pre-conference to the 12th annual ANAPRI Stakeholders Conference (4-6 Nov 2025). Selected papers may be published in a special journal issue. The findings will also inform the World Bank flagship study on “Leveraging the Agrifood System for Jobs