Escales autour du numérique

Extract : Le travail à l'ère du numérique

Le numérique suscite un ensemble de changements sur notre rapport au travail. L'autonomie, la reconnaissance de la singularité, la valorisation de la réputation font partie des habits neufs du travail contemporain. Les frontières entre travail, loisir, vie familiale s'entremêlent au point de remettre en cause les anciens compromis sociaux voire l'équilibre même de la société salariale. Par ailleurs, la technologie recompose les activités humaines au point de questionner la place de l'homme dans les univers de production. La valeur du travail humain s'avère d'autant plus bousculée au regard des évolutions technologiques en cours. Cette session propose de recenser et caractériser les mutations en cours pour appréhender le travail de demain.

Dépôt des intentions de communications jusqu'au 1er avril 2018.

Congress

Forum Large-scale agriculture - for profit and society? 2018

Extract : 27 June 2018 - IAMO Forum 2018 will deal with "Large-scale agriculture - for profit and society?" In recent decades, new agribusiness models have emerged in a number of transition, emerging and developed economies. The IAMO Forum 2018 provides a platform for research that investigates the economic, managerial and social aspects of large-scale agriculture as well as institutional frameworks that enable the persistence of large agricultural enterprises.

Why small farms persist? The influence of farmers' characteristics on farm growth and development. The case of smaller dairy farmers in NZ

Extract : Given their current and expected economic environment, farmers must use their human capital in mapping out a trajectory for their farm. This study considers particular aspects of farmers' human capital and its influence on farm growth, or lack of it. Farmers' characteristics as expressed through their personality, intelligence and objectives are the main human capital aspects considered in a sample of smaller NZ dairy farms.

Drinking water and off-farm labour supply: between-gender and within-gender bias

Extract : In this paper, we use the China Health and Nutrition Survey (CHNS) panel data to analyse the impact of drinking water on off-farm labour supply. We find that impacts of drinking water conditions on off-farm labour supply may be greater for women than men but depends on the specific family role or family structure. We also find that water the infrastructure program may actually encourage off-farm labour mobility, reducing the supply of agricultural labour and the share of household labour on the farm.

Les deux extrémités de la chaîne : employeurs et recrutés dans les processus d'embauche

Extract : L'embauche est un lieu de rencontre entre deux réseaux relationnels, celui de l'employeur et celui du salarié. Comment interviennent les relations interpersonnelles dans l'embauche ? Comment s'articulent-elles avec les autres moyens existants de mise en contact (annonces, agences de placement, etc.), que l'on peut désigner comme des dispositifs de médiation ? Une enquête menée auprès de salariés et employeurs basée sur une méthode mixte d'analyse, la méthode des narrations quantifiées, met en évidence le fait que salariés et employeurs, présents aux deux bouts de la même chaîne relationnelle, ne portent pas le même regard sur l'embauche.

Le travail peut-il devenir supportable ? De Clot et Gollac

Extract : Les deux auteurs de cet ouvrage ont une grande expérience acquise par des recherches souvent collectives en rapport avec des situations de travail diverses. L'un, Yves Clot, est psychologue du travail, l'autre, Michel Gollac, est sociologue et statisticien. Ces spécialités leur donnent une vue et des expériences variées des situations de travail. Ils considèrent comme une richesse les controverses résultant parfois de leurs échanges et ils souhaitent que leur livre aide les futurs lecteurs à « penser par eux-mêmes ».
