News

Optimised agro-industrial sector can create about 17 million jobs in Africa

The UN Environment inquiry report on sustainable financing of development (2015, 212 p), amongst others, highlights the urgent need for a blended financing model combining publicly, privately, domestically and internationally sourced finances in Africa.

Introducing APRA (Agricultural Policy Research in Africa)

Agricultural Policy Research in Africa (APRA) is a five-year research programme aiming to analyse pathways to agricultural commercialisation and their differential impacts on empowerment of women and girls, poverty reduction, and food and nutrition security and in Sub-Saharan Africa. Agricultural commercialisation is encouraged by growing demand both for agricultural products (food, raw materials supplies for agro-industries) and for workers within growing urban centres.

Preparing for a farm safety inspection

Workplace Safety Inspectors, across Australia, are increasing the number of dairy farm inspections as part of a campaign to improve farm safety.

Some of the key areas they will focus on include: Induction for Farm Employees, Quad Bikes, Milking Operations, Belts and Guarding, Chemical Use and Storage and Silos

Child Labour in Agriculture | FAO

Child labour is defined as work that is inappropriate for a child's age, affects children's education, or is likely to harm their health, safety or morals. It should be emphasized that not all work carried out by children is considered child labour.

Canadian Rural Revitalization Foundation Conference

The 2018 Canadian Rural Revitalization Foundation Conference is all about bringing together practitioners, policy makers, community leaders, and researchers interested in rural issues. This year's theme is Health and Shared Prosperity. With subthemes including:

Prosperous Labour Forces: An aging labour force means big changes for small communities. What economic development opportunities are present in rural areas? What redevelopment opportunities can be found in post-industrial rural communities? How do we develop prosperous labour forces?

The deadline for content submission is Monday April 2nd at 11:59PM.

Une approche communicationnelle de la santé au travail

La revue Sciences de la société vise à promouvoir une recherche pluridisciplinaire dans le champ des sciences humaines et sociales. À l'occasion du n°106, nous vous proposons de contribuer à l'enrichissement des travaux sur la santé au travail. Les auteurs sont invités à aborder ces questions dans une problématique info-communicationnelle ou dans une problématique qui verrait l'objet « information » ou « communication » occuper une place centrale. Ils interrogeront leur place et/ou leur rôle vis-à-vis de la santé au travail. Les réflexions et potentiels modèles théoriques proposés prendront appui de manière privilégiée sur des enquêtes de terrain.

Remise des propositions de deux pages maximum : 2 avril 2018

Travail et subalternités

Les questions concernant la santé et la subjectivité dans le travail sont considérées comme un aspect central dans la dynamique des sociétés d'aujourd'hui. Bien que le travail puisse fonctionner comme promoteur et protecteur de la santé physique et mentale, il peut également conduire à la souffrance psychique et à la maladie. Il s'agit de mettre au jour et de problématiser, en partant des travailleurs et travailleuses les moins visibles, les nouvelles formes de la dynamique santé-maladie ou santé mentale-souffrance au travail, d'interroger les modalités d'action praticiennes (en psychologie, médecine du travail, travail social, etc.) et de visibiliser aussi des alternatives au travail néolibéralisé.

Traditions théoriques et nouvelles technologies

Dans quels cadres théoriques penser les nouvelles technologies ? Nous proposons de discuter la pertinence renouvelée ou les limites des différentes traditions théoriques mobilisées aujourd'hui pour penser l'effet du développement des technologies de l'information et de la communication. Un deuxième axe, incontournable, est celui du travail et des rapports de production.

Deadline: avant le 4 mars

Publications

The Number, Size, and Distribution of Farms, Smallholder Farms, and Family Farms Worldwide

This article uses agricultural census data (provided at the country level in Web Appendix) to show that there are more than 570 million farms worldwide, most of which are small and family-operated. It shows that small farms (less than 2 ha) operate about 12% and family farms about 75% of the world's agricultural land. Continued efforts to enhance the collection and dissemination of up-to date, comprehensive, and more standardized agricultural census data, including at the farm and national level, are essential to having a more representative picture of the number of farms, small farms, and family farms as well as changes in farm size and farmland distribution worldwide.

Le prix du « retour » chez les agriculteurs « néo-ruraux »

L'article interroge les logiques sociales qui conduisent des agricultrices « néo-rurales », à savoir non issues de familles d'agriculteurs, à devenir maraîchères aux côtés de leur conjoint et à travailler dans l'ombre de celui-ci, sans statut professionnel.
